Exhibitions at the Beams

Introduction

The Beams is a new, expansive venue and event space in London.

The incredible 9,500 square metre site offers a raw, industrial destination, comprising three distinct interior spaces and a large outside courtyard.

Formerly part of the “sugar mile”, the Beams has given this section of East London’s historic Royal Docks a new lease of life, becoming a Centre for new Culture in the Capital. The location is easily accessible by the DLR and is only a short distance from London City Airport.

The venue is defined by a range of beautiful architectural features, including the roof beams after which it is named, while original factory-style windows flood the main space with beams of natural light.

The Beams spotlights culture in all its forms. Its flexible and inspiring environment provides an unrivalled landscape for exhibitions and immersive experiences. With a combined internal and external footprint of 16,000 square metres, the raw industrial building allows ambitious builds both in the interconnected warehouse spaces and outdoor Courtyard. The Beams offers exclusive hire for long-term exhibitions, with flexible and boundary-pushing potential.

Thin Air

This year, we hosted Thin Air, an immersive new media exhibition in residence at the Beams for three months. Bringing together some of the world's most ambitious artists working in light, sound and installation, the exhibition was praised by Culture Whisper as 'a realisation of what technology can do when given such a large-scale space to work with'.

The site-specific displays highlight the ability of the vast industrial site to evoke emotion and capture the attention of diverse audiences. It took the form of an immersive journey through the cavernous spaces of the former warehouse. The high ceilings, uninterrupted floor spans and high-tech production facilities were crucial to the realisation of the project.

The journey culminated in Space 4, a hybrid event space that could be hired for exclusive use for up to 600 guests. This expanded the reach and potential of the exhibition, through hosting private viewings followed by breakfasts, dinners and receptions. The curators of the show could use the space to deliver talks and events, and the offering also attracted corporate clients looking for new ways to entertain and network with their partners.
